

5 Best Chiles en Nogada for Mexican Independence Day

By Bridget Shirvell - September 16, 2014

Romesco Mexiterranean Bistro

Romesco Mexiterranean Bistro, San Diego, California

At San Diego's Romesco Mexiterranean Bistro, Chiles en Nogada isn't a dish that just pops up on the specials menu once a year. The traditional dish is almost always on their dinner menu, $21.95, and made as close to the classic Puebla, Mexican way executive chef Javier Plascencia can do in California. He stuffs the poblano pepper with picadillo of pork tenderloin and beef filet, dried fruit, and apple and then tops it with that creamy walnut sauce.

Share this!

- Twitter
- Pinterest
- Facebook
- More Services
- Send to a Friend

< previous next >

view all slides